The last 15 tweets by a user look great, but what if I have lots of great tweets, by lots of different users, with lots of pics? Or what if I have lots of info on a person, but no pic? Does Twitter provide anything for me to help with this, or do I have to check out the info manually? There is an app for that! It allows you to look up a person, and you see all the information you need for that person. For example, with this app, you can: - Look up a user - See the user's info - See their picture - See the most recent 15 tweets - See the last time the user was active - This is a great app, and it is FREE, so check out ProfileLookItUp today! ProfileLookItUp Best Feature: This app has a HUGE BONUS! Many people don't realize that with Twitter you can look up people by looking up a keyword or phrase. With this app, once you look someone up, you can check out their profile, by clicking on their username, which will take you to their profile. From there, you can check out their picture, and read all the info you need. That's a BIG deal, because most Twitter apps require you to have a Twitter account, and that can be a hassle! So, if you are a new Twitter user, or you just want to look up someone, this app is a MUST have!
