It supports a wide range of clients and email accounts. All in all, SendGuard provides a highly customizable and easily accessible add-in for users to track and prevent the sending of various types of email, and allows users to add custom safety measures on their emails. Using the components of SendGuard, users can quickly check the integrity of the incoming and outgoing emails, and allow users to specifically search through outgoing and incoming emails for verification based on different search criteria that they have provided. The application can help users maintain control of their emails, which is especially useful when it comes to emails that are likely to get viruses. One of the main features that SendGuard offers is the ability to perform an on-the-fly check of attachments, which is useful if attachments are not included in the email, as well as their quality. The application will prompt users to be extra careful when opening emails, as depending on what they have set up, it will not only check for attachments or illegal content, but will also be able to warn users if they have not added the attachments, or if they have missed out keywords that are required by the email for its proper routing. An important feature that the application also offers is the ability to add custom "keywords" and to mark certain types of emails as "must pass", which is useful for those who are prone to typing errors in emails. This feature allows users to avoid having to open an email multiple times, waiting for all the data to be correctly entered. SendGuard is a popular and reputable program, and is an excellent program for those users who are worried about email security, and especially who want to be extra careful with their emails.
