In previous versions, everything was pretty much one view. Now, however, I can view the entire image by zooming in and out. There are also stereo and DCP options. I have not yet tried the new features in this release, but they may improve my workflow. To observe some of the new controls, you can view and compare the image in the Inspector and the Photo Editor while a Process panel shows up in the lower-right. On the lower-left, there is a Phone and Apps panel, while a Window menu allows you to turn off image title info. Also, check out the new Layer panel and the Ink panel on the left. For professionals, there is also a checkbox to create Ink Presets. At the bottom right, there is a new panel that calls up the Adjustment panel's edge detection, auto-white balance, address, brightness and other features to make it easy to fine-tune skin tones and other color attributes. This is a great improvement! Here are some other new features:

- Color picker lets you pick a color in the image with a color wheel.
- Ruler displays an interactive measurement ruler to help measure the width, height, or borders of the document.
- Many built-in -new- Adjustments, such as Exposure (=Shade), Gamma (=Grayscale), Levels, Threshold, Highlight & Shadow, Colorize, Dodge & Burn, Posterize, and Sharpen. In addition, you can now create your own enhancements in other sections such as Lens Correction, Color Balance, etc. Using the new Enhance menu, you can apply adjustments and effects to an image or even directly into a layer.
- Also, you can now define entire image groups as a preset by combining various options such as Image Type, Color Mode, etc.
- Improved Shape Layers, Gradients, Blending Modes, Masking, and new content-aware Fill, Clipping Mask, and Spot Healing Brush. Easier to create complex Layer Styles.
- More intuitive and exact content-aware features, including color, patterns, and objects.
- New pseudo- 3D tools for seamless text.
- Improved Shadows for more realistic glare and highlights.
- New Artboards, Track Panel, and VRAM meters.
- Indirect Editing for easier cropping, image adjustments, and a Before-After view of updates applied.
- Improved Find & Replace dialog.

Jan Skubis, global head of Creative Cloud, said, “The image editing world has historically relied on cameras, tools and software vendors to create a standardized set of performance metrics and guidelines. Photoshop is uniquely equipped to leverage that approach with a machine-learning-driven system that will allow it to adjust to new and different types of camera sensors. With a standardized camera-to-photoshop workflow, users will be able to quickly get the most out of their photos using the camera that they have, contributing to our goal of making Photoshop the all-in-one solution.” The share workspace introduced in Photoshop CS7’s Photoshop Elements added a workspace and tools to work with people within the same application, but selections made in the PS tools were still stored locally. With the Share workspace, artists can create a shared selection of their files to work on concurrently rather than store data and files locally. The separation of the data and files allows for incredibly convenient and secure sharing of selections. Artists can also view all the selections and check out the process for edits, while the original file is maintained. Today’s commit includes two major improvements to selections in the 16-bit LAB with 8-bit alpha channel. These 100+ years of improvements in selections are essential to the breadth and depth of photo editing in Photoshop. Adobe Sensei AI, the machine-learning-driven facial recognition engine that powers Photoshop for AI editing in the Creative Cloud apps, will expand the ability to leverage these improvements with the addition of new face detection technologies. The traditional rectangular selections used for depth multiple corrections will now be able to elegantly keep the option to select more than one area when using the Lasso selection tool. With the innovative Intensity-Based Selection tool and the new Select Faces functionality, users can create more reliable selections based on faces within images. These improvements mean that users will get more accurate selections when editing images.

Photoshop for Web will provide access to a set of screen reader controls for managing and inspecting Photoshop’s dynamcis and feature content. You’ll be able to use the html tags such as “alt” and “tabindex” to describe and enable interaction with the dynamic and feature content on your website. Photoshop will also get more sophisticated with Photoshop for Web. This means better responsiveness to your web browsing and mobile device. You’ll see a faster and more intuitive user experience as well as better multitasking performance. Photoshop will have a new, responsive UI style so that you can easily view, navigate, and edit documents on your PC or mobile device. This release of Photoshop also includes new desktop print performance enhancements that make it easier to print and save for the future. The changes to Photoshop are powered by the new Photoshop CC Extended - the most powerful Adobe Creative Suite desktop application ever - and Adobe Sensei AI, the world’s largest learning-powered intelligent platform. Photoshop is the most widely adopted application on the planet, with over 30 billion digital images created each year. The introduction of Share for Review in Photoshop on the web and desktop expands the capabilities of the creative community. The Photoshop team plans to add additional Share for Review co-authoring features for other Creative Cloud services in the future. In collaboration with Adobe Sensei AI, Share for Review continues to evolve to meet the evolving needs of designers.
